HAWAIIAN NATIONAL GUARD STAFF CORPS WITHIN MEANING OF LAW

Militia Must Recruit to Its Full Strength to Properly Reorganize

Although there is a movement throughout the country to strictly enforce the Dick law regulating the organization of the national guard and confining the number of staff officers to that absolutely necessary to conduct the military business of states and territories, it appears that Hawaii is strictly within its rights in maintaining its present militia staff corps. It is held that "officers on the staff of the governors" are not considered as a part of the organized militia in so far as the provisions of this respect Hawaii has conformed for the last four or five years, as all officers have either been members of line or staff corps.

Also, the local militia authorities will have to recruit up to full regimental strength to effect an entire reorganization of the national guard of Hawaii.

Circular No. 8, issued by the division of militia affairs, August 1, 1913, shows that:

In accordance with the recently announced intention of the war department to exact a greater degree of conformity on the part of the national guard with the regular army, the division of militia affairs has issued a circular establishing more rigorous standards of organization than have existed heretofore.

Section 3 of the amended Dick law provides:

"On and after January 21, 1900, the organization * * * of the organized militia in the several states, territories, and the District of Columbia, shall be the same as that which is now or may hereafter be prescribed for the regular army of the United States, subject in time of peace to such general exceptions as may be authorized by the secretary of war."

The circular says that "Exercising the discretion thus vested in him as to the general exemptions in time of peace, and believing that a sufficient time has now elapsed to enable the states to more definitely conform in organization to the regular army, the secretary of war has" prescribed the standards which are set forth.

It is provided that in time of peace the several states, territories and the District of Columbia will be considered as territorial militia departments, the respective governors and the commanding generals of the District of Columbia being, respectively, the commander-in-chief of each. These departments may have administrative staffs, conforming in size and personnel to the custom of the war department in similar cases in the federal establishment, as indicated in this circular. From these staff departments will be detailed the staff officers for tactical units as done in the regular army."

The circular sets forth tables showing the appropriate organization of staff corps and departments of a state or territory, all based on the regular army standard with minor modifications.

The divisional organization in some of the states will be affected by new rules. Army field service regulations provide that a division shall consist of three infantry brigades of three regiments each; one regiment of cavalry, one brigade (two regiments) of field artillery, one pioneer battalion (three companies) of engineers, one battalion (two companies) of signal corps, four field hospitals, four ambulance companies, one ammunition train, one supply train.

Hawaii having less than a twelve-company regiment, will be required to organize the additional companies to make a full regiment, or to organize the existing force as two separate battalions and one separate company. Efforts to organize other companies have been slowly progressing in the guard, but no complete new organizations have been mustered in.

The provisions of the circular take effect on January 1, 1914, and show that if at any time the number of companies in a complete regiment falls below twelve (exclusive of the machine gun company), the deficiency must be replaced within six months, or the regimental organization be considered permanently abandoned, the officers and enlisted men of the regimental headquarters, the headquarters detachment, the mounted scouts and orderlies, machine gun company, the band, and one battalion headquarters being mustered out, or otherwise disposed of.

The organization of the staff corps and departments of the organized militia of a state or territory should be commensurate with the organization of the tactical units of the organized militia of the state, and the number and rank of the officers of the administrative staff corps and departments should be sufficient (a) to carry on in the state or territory both in times of peace and war the proper military administration at Guard headquarters.

(b) To provide the military organizations, both in times of peace and war, with the proper quota of staff officers to suit their legitimate needs. For each state or territory one adjutant general with the rank of not more than a brigadier general, all other staff officers to conform with the strength of the organized militia as shown in table (a) of the circular. Under table (a) Hawaii, having less than two regiments, would have the following staff corps: one adjutant general, in the inspector general's department, one major; in the judge advocate general's department, one major; in the quartermaster corps, one major and two captains; in the medical department, one major, one captain, or lieutenant; in the ordnance department, one major.

While the regular staffs are allowed to division and brigade commanders, it is required that they be detailed from the line or permanent staff corps. A major-general is granted a detailed colonel as chief of staff, but when called into service of the United States, "the chief of staff and assistant chief of staff will be assigned by the President of the United States."

The circular gives complete details, too long for publication here, of precisely what will be and what will not be allowed in the way of extra officers. An extra captain, assigned as an assistant inspector of small arms practice for each regiment, or numerical equivalent thereof, and an extra first lieutenant for the same purpose for each battalion—four companies or troops—are allowed.

Officers allowed for a twelve-company regiment or its equivalent are as follows: one colonel, one lieutenant colonel, three majors, three captains, unassigned, for staff duty; twelve company captains; three first lieutenants, unassigned, for staff duty; twelve company first lieutenants; three second lieutenants, unassigned, for staff duty; twelve company second lieutenants; one chaplain.

Separate companies are permitted only where the total number of companies comes under or over recognized units. Thus five separate companies in a State must be organized into one battalion and one extra company; thirteen extra companies must be organized as one regiment, and one extra company.

The Importance of Keeping Clean

Every man, woman or child who neglects to keep antiseptically clean, inside and out, invites disease in one form or another.

It lurks in the air we breathe, in the food we eat. Every little cut, or scratch, or insect bite offers ingress to some among the countless disease germs which, if not immediately destroyed, may bring on blood poisoning in one of its many forms.

Don't ignore the importance of combating the disease germ all the time. Get in the habit of using an antiseptic as a mouth wash, night and morning. Have a bottle handy for use in cuts, burns, bruises or insect bites. Take the ounce of prevention which might prevent the pound of cure.

The best antiseptic to use is LISTOGEN. It goes farther than Peroxide of Hydrogen by uniting with that most efficient germ destroyer the remedial and antiseptic properties of Thymol, Menthol and Eucalyptol.

These valuable elements take up the work where Peroxide of Hydrogen leaves off and with their help LISTOGEN not only destroys the germ, but in some degree repairs the damage the germ has done.

Ask your druggist for LISTOGEN. You will delight in the purifying, refreshing sensation that it gives. 25 cts., 50 cts. and $1 a bottle at
